Technatomy Corporation Awarded Veterans Affairs and Department of Defense Health Information Technology Sharing Program Contract

(FAIRFAX, VA. June 20, 2006) - Technatomy Corporation announced today that it has been awarded an interagency project support contract administered by the Department of Veterans Affairs. In cooperation with the Department of Defense, the contract will provide services in support of the Health Information Technology Sharing (HITS) Program. The value of the award is $3.25M, with all options exercised.

The VA and DoD HITS Program provides for the seamless transition of veterans' medical records from the Military Health System to the Veterans Health Administration. Under this contract, Technatomy Corporation will facilitate and support the development of mutually beneficial health information technology sharing agreements between the two agencies. They will provide comprehensive senior administrative and functional support to the VA/DoD HITS Program Director, including program planning and scheduling support and maintenance of the HITS website. The HITS Program supports the VA mission to promote quality healthcare for veterans and their dependents.

"The integration of two separate and distinct health care records management systems presents unique information technology challenges" said Nadeem Butler, CEO of Technatomy Corporation. "Our experienced staff will meet these challenges in order to provide our service members and veterans with the solutions necessary to effectively manage their health care records."

This award continues Technatomy Corporation's support of both Veterans Affairs and Department of Defense programs. Technatomy Corporation is headquartered in Fairfax, VA.
